CANADA

PROCLAMATION

GEORGE the FIFTH, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyo: ' the Seas, KING, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India.

To all to whom these presents shall come or whom the same may in any wise concern,—GREETING:

A Proclamation of conditional amnesty respecting men belonging to Class I under the Military Service Act, 1917, who have disobeyed our Proclamation of 13th October, 1917, or their orders to report for duty, or are deserters or absent without leave from the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

E. L. NEWCOMBE, } WHEREAS consider-
Deputy Minister of Justice, }
Canada. } able number of men belonging to Class I under our Military Service Act, 1917, called out on active service in our Canadian Expeditionary Force for the defence of Canada under our Proclamation of 13th October, 1917, although they have thus become by law soldiers enlisted in the Military Service of Canada,

Have failed to report for duty as lawfully required of them under the said Military Service Act and the regulations thereunder, including the Order in Council duly passed on April 20 last,

Or have deserted,
Or absented themselves without leave from our Canadian Expeditionary Force,

And it is represented that the very serious and unfortunate situation in which these men find themselves is due in many cases to the fact that, notwithstanding the information and warning contained in our Proclamation aforesaid, they have misunderstood their duty or obligation, or have been misled by the advice of ill-disposed, disloyal or seditious persons.

AND WHEREAS we desire, if possible, to avoid the infliction of the heavy penalties which the law imposes for the offences of which these soldiers have thus been guilty, and to afford them an opportunity within a limited time to report and make their services available in our Canadian Expeditionary Force as is by law their bounden duty, and as is necessary for the defence of our Dominion of Canada.

NOW KNOW YE that we in the exercise of our powers, and of our good will and pleasure, in that behalf, do hereby proclaim and declare and cause to be published and made known THAT THE PENALTIES OF THE LAW WILL NOT BE IMPOSED OR EXACTED as against the men who belong to Class I under our Military Service Act, 1917, and who have disobeyed our Proclamation aforesaid; or who have received notice from any of our registrars or deputy registrars to report for duty on a day now past and have failed so to report; or who, having reported and obtained leave of absence, have failed to report at the expiry of their leave, or have become deserters from our Expeditionary Force, PROVIDED THEY REPORT FOR DUTY ON OR BEFORE THE TWENTY FOURTH DAY OF AUGUST 1918.

AND WE DO HEREBY STRICTLY WARN AND SOLEMNLY IMPRESS UPON ALL SUCH MEN, and as well those who employ, harbour, conceal or assist them in their disobedience, that, if they persist in their failure to report, absence or desertion until the expiry of the last mentioned day, they will be pursued and punished with all the rigour and severity of the law, SUBJECT TO THE JUDGMENT OF OUR COURTS MARTIAL WHICH WILL BE CONVENED TO TRY SUCH CASES or other competent tribunals; and also that those who employ, harbour, conceal or assist such men will be held strictly accountable as offenders and subject to the pains, penalties and forfeitures in that behalf by law provided for their said offence.

Provided however that nothing contained in this our Proclamation is intended to release the men aforesaid from their obligation to report for duty as soon as possible or to grant them immunity from arrest or detention in the meantime for the purpose of compelling them to perform their military duty; our intention being merely to forego or remit the penalties heretofore incurred for failure to report, absence without leave or desertion incurred by those men of the description aforesaid who shall be in the proper discharge of their military duties on or before the said twenty-fourth day of August, 1918.

Of all of which our loving subjects and all others whom these presents may concern are hereby required to take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have caused these our Letters to be made Patent, and the Great Seal of Canada to be hereunto affixed. Witnesses: Our Right Trusty and Right Entirely Beloved Cousin and Counsellor, Victor Christian William, Duke of Devonshire, Marquess of Hartington, Earl of Devonshire, Earl of Burlington, Baron Cavendish of Hardwicke, Baron Cavendish of Keighley, Knight of Our Most Noble Order of the Garter; One of Our Most Honourable Privy Council, Knight Grand Cross of Our Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Knight Grand Cross of Our Royal Victorian Order, Governor General and Commander-in-Chief of Our Dominion of Canada.

At Our Government House, in Our City of OTTAWA, this FIRST DAY of AUGUST, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighteen, and in the ninth year of Our Reign

UNION CHURCH, CROSSFIELD.

Rev. J. P. Westman, Secretary of Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies, for Alberta and British Columbia, will be the speaker next Sunday at Rodney 12 a.m., Elba 3 p.m. and Crossfield 7-80 p.m. The young people especially will be interested in what Mr. Westman has to say. He is a progressive, stimulating speaker. It is expected that his visit will help to promote Sunday School work in this district. A hearty invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

The Committee having in charge the Concert to be held in the Union Church under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid has decided upon Friday, Sept. 20th, as the date for this event. It was felt that this would give time for thorough preparation of a first-class programme, and also enable the country people to attend when the busy period of reaping would be over.

TO THE KAISER

By Private John Keeler.

The Kaiser called the devil up

On the telephone one day,

The girl at central listened

To all they had to say,

"Hello," she heard the Kaiser say,

"Is old Satan home?"

Just tell him it's Kaiser Bill

That wants him on the 'phone,"

The devil said "Hello" to Bill

And I'll be right there,

"How are you?"

I'm running a hell here on earth

Now tell me what to do."

"I'll be right there, Now, listen,

And I will try to tell

The way that I'm running

On earth a modern hell."

"I've saved for this for many years,

And I've started out to kill:

That it will be a modern job

You leave to Kaiser Bill."

"My army went through Belgium

Shooting women and children down,

We tore up all the country

And blew up every town."

"My Zeppelins dropped bombs on cities,

Killing both old and young,

And those the Zeppelins didn't get

Were taken out and hung."

"I started out for Paris

With the aid of poisonous gas,

The Belgians, darn them, stopped us

And would not let us pass."

"My submarines are deadly,

Why, you should see them fight,

The go smacking through the seas

And sink a ship at sight."

"I was running things to suit me

Till a year or so ago;

Then a man named Woodrow Wilson

Wrote me to go slow."

"He says to me, 'Dear William:
We don't want to make you sore;
So be sure to tell your U-boats
To sink our ships no more.'"

"We have told you for the last time
So, Dear Bill it's up to you,
And if you don't stop it,
You have to fight me too."

"I didn't listen to him
And he is coming after me
With a million Yankee soldiers
From their homes across the sea."

"Now that's why I called you, Satan,
For I want advice from you,
I know that you will tell me
Just what I ought to do."

"My dear old Kaiser William,
There's not much for me to tell
For the 'Yanks' can make it hotter
Than I ever could in hell."

"I've been a mean old devil
But not half as mean as you
And the minute you get here
I'll give the job to you."

"I'll be ready for your coming,
And I'll keep the fires all bright
And I'll make your room all ready
When the Yankees start to fight."

"For the boys in tan will tell you,
I have nothing more to tell;
Hang up the 'phone and get your hat
And meet me here in hell."

The Fattening of Chickens

The profits obtained from marketing lean poorly fleeced, unfattened chickens are so small as to be hardly worth the effort. Many of the packing houses and larger produce dealers find it necessary to considerably increase the value of the necessary premises and equipment to properly fatten such poultry. The best place to fatten poultry is on the farm, and if it pays the packing houses to take the trouble, it obviously would be good business to do the work on the farm.

Proper feeding and finishing will not only greatly increase the weight of the birds, but will also increase the value of every ounce of flesh on the carcass, and greatly reduce the proportion of offal in relation to the amount of edible meat.

There is generally a difference of from three to seven cents per pound in the price paid for well-fattened birds as compared with lean unfattened stock just off the range.

There is always a market for prime quality poultry, while the poorer quality has to be sold at whatever price can be obtained, depending on the market and the amount of effort put forth on the part of the seller.

Birds generally make the greatest gain when about three to four months of age, and the average birds make the most economical gains during the first two weeks of special feeding.

Chickens can be readily taught to feed in lamplight; this is a novelty, as it is desirable that the time of feeding be spaced as nearly as possible twelve hours apart.

The crate system of feeding is much more economical and efficient. In practicing this method, one is able to carefully note the progress being made by each bird and the feeding period of the more thrifty can often be shortened or lengthened as desired. Also the flesh of the crate-fed birds is invariably softer than that of pen fed birds.

For amplification of the foregoing information apply to the Publication Branch Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, or Bulletin No. 88 of the Division of Poultry of the Experimental Farms entitled "Preparing Poultry Produce for Market."

THE MOST SERIOUS CRISIS THE WORLD HAS EVER WITNESSED

ADJUSTMENT OF LABOR CONDITIONS NECESSARY

The Willing War Time Spirit Must Prevail in Order to Minimize The Effect of Shortage of Experienced Farm Labor for the Forthcoming Harvest Operations

The farmers of Canada will very shortly have to undertake the harvest work with the help of green labor. In this connection they should remember that we are at war. They should adjust the work throughout the farm to suit the new conditions, and they should begin right in their own minds.

The first adjustment necessary is to change the point of view from one of criticism, discouragement and fault-finding with labor conditions to that of the soldier and war worker, and realize that we are going through a crisis, the most serious the world has ever witnessed without any exaggeration whatsoever.

There used to be talk among farmers derogatory of the shells and other inexperienced laborers who sometimes sought employment temporarily on such farms. Such talk is out of place now, with the Germans sixty miles from Paris and every available man in France fighting to save not only his own country but this country as well. Such Canadian farmers who say that they themselves have been farmers all their lives and in war time they can't expect to soldier and win. But it is not impossible that farm production of this country be increased, despite the shortage of experienced labor. That this is true is proven by the experience of this country in the manufacture of munitions.

When the war started Canada was absolutely inexperienced, unskilled in, and without the machinery for the manufacture of munitions. But the manufacturers got to work. They studied the problem and they solved it.

Today Canada is turning out millions of dollars worth of shells every month from the largest to the smallest, and the most minute mechanical contrivances. Munitions with fuses and time charges. Canada's record in the manufacture of munitions is one of the surprises of the war. It was not made by Canada, saying "Canada Can't," but by adopting the motto "Canada Can." Canada did not refuse to try because of the scarcity of labor but set to work to organize and employ men and girls who had never been inside a factory before. They accomplished the impossible. These experienced helpers were speedily taught their parts and the result shown in the production of munitions from Canadian factories now known all over the world—not excepting Germany.

The result of organization and the willing war-time spirit in Great Britain is equally convincing. In Great Britain last year, largely with inexperienced labor on the land, increased her cereal production by 850,000 tons, its potato production by 5,000,000 tons. The cultivated area was increased altogether by 1,000,000 acres. When in 1917, 820,645 men were taken from industrial organizations and placed in the war office replaced them with 804,000 women, and yet the production of grain was increased 20%, and 250%, while shipping tonnage amounted to 1,165,000 tons, additional.

The best recent illustration of what can be done in an emergency when only inexperienced men are available is that of the battle of Picardy during the fifth army under General Gough was overwhelmed and outnumbered. It looked inevitable that the Hun would break through and capture the city. Amiens, which would have meant the interruption of railway communication between channel ports and Paris, cutting off the British from one of their chief bases of supply.

General Gough, however, saved the situation. He called upon all classes of men behind the lines, and not only soldiers, cooks, camp followers, railway construction men, Chinese laborers, medical service men, transport men, or whatever they were and organized them to fill the breach.

With these men General Gough won the battle. The fifth army failed to do it—he held the line. With no training in trench warfare, the fighting organization before that time, General Gough gathered them together and they won the battle. He said: "I can't use this untrained class of men" but he set to work without a moment's hesitation to make the best of them, and he succeeded in saving the British army and its allies from a desperate crisis.

Similarly, if the Canadian farmer makes up his mind that these are war times and war measures are necessary there is absolutely no doubt he can utilize to a tremendous advantage the man power and woman power of the towns, who people are only too willing to go to his assistance, if they are organized to do so. He must not expect them to be experienced and to know as much about the details of farm work as he does. It has taken him a lifetime to acquire his information. Townspeople have spent their lives at different work, but with his knowledge of farming and his intimate acquaintance with his farm and all its needs he should have the ability to organize inexperienced help and show each helper his or her particular job and how best to accomplish it. A few hours' patient teaching in any one particular line of work will very soon enable a green worker to "go on," as they say in the army. By patience and consideration the farmers of Canada will be able to effect an organization from green but willing help from town that will not only surprise themselves but will also be of tremendous benefit to the country. The increased results of their harvest.

Indians Busy in Greater Production

Fifty Thousand Acres Under Cultivation in Coarse Grains

The Indians of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta this year are engaged in the greater production campaign with over 50,000 acres under cultivation in the coarse grains, the greater part of this being in wheat. They also have at least 25,000 bushels of potatoes, all sorts of vegetables and summer garden stuff. This was the conservative estimate given to the Regina Leader by Mr. W. G. Graham, Indian commissioner for the three provinces.

Last year the Indians had about 40,000 acres under cultivation and their crops were excellent both in yield and quality. The weather produced a large crop of beans which brought a high figure. This year they have a record in the record show at the end of the season for on every reserve they have gone to work with energy and have increased the acreage everywhere.

Their record of enlistments for active service overseas is an enviable one. According to population they have given an equal percentage of men in the fighting lines, there being over 2000 Indians from Canada in the C.E.F. The exact figures for the war are not obtainable, but it is well over the 400 mark, one reserve, Pelly, sending 21 men out of 43 eligible for service.

Since the beginning of the war the Indians and Indian women have done great work assisting the Red Cross funds. Red Cross locals have been formed and regular contributions are forwarded to the central office at Regina, Winnipeg and Calgary.

Taking Revenge On Prisoners

Has Been Increasing Rigor During the Last Three Months

Eight French soldiers who escaped from a German prison camp, Wittenburg, near Mannheim, report that there has been increasing rigor during the last three months in the "prisoner camps" in Germany. The British troops particularly are suffering, while the French are fairly well treated. The treatment, the escaped prisoners declare, becomes more severe after each raid on the Rhine towns. The Germans hoping thus, an officer member of the party said, to cause a cessation of the allied raids.

This officer added that the Germans were exposing the lives of both allied officers and men, by concentrating them near ammunition factories likely to be attacked. But he added, "we prefer to be killed by our bombs rather than give in to the raids continue."

Captain and Duchess

It was at a British hospital near the front. A Red Cross nurse came to the door to see a patient, and reaching out a pail, said sweetly: "Will you please get me a pail of water?" He hesitated an instant, then stammered out, "Why, I can't do that, you know, I'm a captain." "Is that so?" "I am," she said, even more sweetly. The crestfallen captain got the water and the duchess initiated scrubbing the floor. —Hamilton Times.

New Hospital Ships

Authority has been issued for the equipment and personnel of two new hospital ships for the Canadian Red Cross service. The new vessels have accommodation for 800 and 600 patients respectively.

Blood Is Thicker Than Water

British Admiral Shooed Germans From U. S. Fleet

This is a good time to remember how at a critical time in the Spanish-American war, the British navy stood by the U. S. fleet against the German enemy they are now opposing as confederates in arms.

An officer who was present at Manila Bay that fateful day, tells the tale.

During the early morning of August 13, the weather was very warm and humid, but after a time it cleared somewhat. The ships were standing on shore, together with some other officers. Von Diederich's German fleet—there were eight ships at all, seven large warships and one smaller vessel—was in one corner of the harbor. During the night the Germans had moved in until they were much closer to Dewey than before. Owing to the distance it was impossible to tell just what was taking place on board, but there seemed to be considerable activity.

"Captain Chichester's English ships were lying between the German and Dewey's fleet," Captain Chichester had taken this same action in a number of instances previously, so we did not regard it as peculiar.

Just before nine o'clock our ships got under way. The monitor battery was first in line, but rather nearer shore than the others. The Olympia and the rest of Dewey's fleet were following, steaming rapidly.

"Then we watched on shore all noticed something peculiar. The battle-flags were broken from the masts and the ships started to move, but instead of the guns being trained toward the Spanish forts they were directed upon Von Diederich's fleet."

"When we all realized what was taking place, it was a moment of supreme suspense for us all. Then at last the British fleet came into action, and before inevitable the British ships began to get under way. In a few minutes the first of Dewey's fleet was directly between our fleet and the Germans. And they were ready for action and quite ready to fight if need be."

"An officer on board told me that the British fleet was in a most compact array, passed the Olympia, the decks of the British vessels were crowded with men. The British fleet was in a most compact array, passed the Olympia, the decks of the British vessels were crowded with men. The British fleet was in a most compact array, passed the Olympia, the decks of the British vessels were crowded with men."

"In a few minutes more the crisis was over. The British fleet was in a most compact array, passed the Olympia, the decks of the British vessels were crowded with men. The British fleet was in a most compact array, passed the Olympia, the decks of the British vessels were crowded with men."

"We do know that it was because blood is thicker than water, that the British fleet was in a most compact array, passed the Olympia, the decks of the British vessels were crowded with men. The British fleet was in a most compact array, passed the Olympia, the decks of the British vessels were crowded with men."

"What would have happened had the British fleet been elsewhere, when the lesson it alone could teach was so badly needed at Manila?"

Kill Militarism Root and Branch

Premier Hughes Tells of War Enthusiasm in Australia

In the course of an interview Premier Hughes said that Britain stood like a giant rock lashed by the fiercest hurricanes, displaying the greatest of grandeur and the spirit worthy of the glorious cause for which she fought.

"In regard to Australia," said Mr. Hughes, "the enemy's desperate blows have rekindled more fiercely the fires of the people's enthusiasm. In the Commonwealth the war spirit is growing and recruits are offering in greater number than for the past two years. Australia will have nothing to do with a German peace."

"America is now stripped for the fight," stated Mr. Hughes. "I have seen these men thousands calmly preparing with deadly earnestness for the battlefield and they are coming in millions. They are not going to destroy militarism root and branch from the face of the earth."

Mr. Hughes said he and his colleagues had received new impressions of the British navy that would last a lifetime. The arrangements for policing the Atlantic were marvellous. Throughout the journey of the ship he had not seen a trace of the enemy. What a tribute to the mighty power and supremacy of the British navy?

Red Riding Hood Knows

Anybody deceived by the so-called "peace" propaganda of the U.S. or U.S. commanders operating off the American coast should be looked upon as a fool. Whatever the mission. No matter what sort of individual he may be in civil life, once he is in the army he is a soldier, and he becomes a non-thinking automaton, entirely controlled by his master's desire. Whatever the mission. No matter what sort of individual he may be in civil life, once he is in the army he is a soldier, and he becomes a non-thinking automaton, entirely controlled by his master's desire.

Desperate Efforts of Enemy to Increase Its Fighting Strength

There Are Many Indications That the Much-Vaunted Strength of the Enemy Is Undergoing a Severe Strain, and That the Supply of Men Is Not Inexhaustible

Important information indicating that Germany's man-power has been sapped severely by the recent desperate drive came to the state department at Washington from a neutral country contiguous to Germany. The facts are given in the correspondence sent to a newspaper in the neutral nation, and it is believed in Washington that they have particular importance at this time because they bear out other information which has been received, to wit, that the German garrisons have been practically stripped. Until recently Germany had massed a considerable number of troops along the Dutch border, presumably with a view to forcing the Netherlands government.

Second, reliable information comes from Russia, which is saving Germany that virtually all the much-needed man-power in many of the munition battalions has been called to the western front.

The German authorities, after carefully studying the situation, have recently decided to replace abandoned men in munition plants with prisoners of war.

The work of the women and children in the munition plants is not, however, on a large scale, and it is only desperation on the part of Germany which causes the employment of the wholesale use of war prisoners on work, much of which is highly confidential.

Thirdly, Germany has, according to reports of investigators, formed German prisoners and even sending the prisoners to fight on the western front.

With this information comes the news that troops remaining in Rumania are being recalled to the front, and that all the German first-class fighting material has been called to the front.

Information of precisely the same character is received with respect to the Russian front. It is understood that the best fighting material from the Russian front has been called to assist the campaign against the British, French and Americans.

Fighting With Spade and Plow

Canadians Help the British Drive For Production

While preparing for their entry into the area of bayonets and hand grenades in Flanders, Canadian soldiers in England are fighting the Germans with spade and plow. The militia department has received statistics from the various authorities dealing with the efforts of the Canadian troops to aid in the great campaign to increase food production in the British Isles. "This state estimate estimates there are 874 acres under cultivation by the Canadian forces in England. 72 of these are being tilled by the hospitals, which produce vegetables, the plants, etc., for the benefit of the troops."

The scheme provided that each unit should run its own farm. They were given permission to draw work capital from their regimental cautions funds; if there were no funds money was advanced them by the authorities under cultivation. The expense to the Canadian public, as these advances are repaid when the crops of the war.

The main crops, such as potatoes, carrots, etc., are sold to the army and navy, which in turn are resold them to the quartermaster general's department for issue to the fighting troops. The profits go to the agricultural fund of the unit for future operations or to the regimental cautions fund to be expended on the men.

In connection with their agricultural activities, the Canadians are setting out shade trees along the roads. Future generations of English soldiers will look back on these as relics of the time when the Canadians came over to do their bit for the empire. The men take a keen interest in the work. During the stay of His Majesty the king at the royal pavilion, Aldershot, the king was shown the work of the vegetables were supplied the royal table from the area cultivated by the Canadians. They were the best of the finest quality and His Majesty expressed his appreciation in a letter of thanks to General Meighen.

Kaiser No Longer "Prince of Peace"

German Ruler Hypocritical in Answer to Message from von

Prussian militarism will bring victory to Germany, says Emperor William, in reply to a telegram of congratulation from the Kaiser's accession from Chancellor von Hertling. The emperor declares that he will not change his attitude "on earth," and expresses the hope that the German people will have strength to bear the hardships and privations. The telegram reads:

"I express cordial thanks and kind wishes to your excellency and state that on the day on which 30 years ago I ascended the throne, I was celebrating my twenty-five year jubilee as ruler. I was able, with special gratitude, to point out that I had been able to do my work as a prince of peace."

"Since then the world picture has changed. For nearly four years, forced to it by my enemies, we have been engaged in the hardest struggle history records. God, the Lord, has laid a heavy burden upon my shoulders and I carry it in the consciousness of our good right, with confidence in our ship, our sword and our strength, and in the realization that the victor will be able to stand the head of the most capable people on earth. Just as our arms, under the leadership of our officers, are completely invincible, so also will the homeland, exerting all its strength, be victorious. The suffering and privations which just now are keenly felt."

"I have spent this day amidst my armies and it moved me to the depths of my heart, yet filled with the most profound gratitude to God, mercy."

"I know that Prussian militarism, so much abused by our enemies, which my forefathers and I, in a spirit of dutifulness, loyalty, order and obedience have nurtured, has given Germany's sword and the German nation strength to triumph and to overcome. I have a peace which will guarantee the German life."

"It will then be my sacred duty, as we have already done, to stand with our power to see to the healing of the wounds caused by the war and to secure a peaceful future for the work. In most faithful recognition of the work hitherto performed, I rely on your approval, strength and the help of this state militia. God bless our land and people."

Japan Is Anxious To Get Into War

Able to Throw 3,000,000 Men Against the Common Enemy

The "Yorizud," a Japanese newspaper, dealing with the question of intervention in Siberia, says: "What additional resources to an ally must be? Prompt action by the Japanese army alone can save England. France's luxury will soon request the intervention of Japan, who now stands like an archer with the sword pointed to the common enemy."

The answer must be instantaneous. Japan's army exists in vain if it is now used to win the game which divides the world. Japan must call up half a million men, two millions to the aid of the allies, and advance to the Urals, or beyond, until the common enemy is encountered.

"We go on as far as is necessary to check the Germans effectively. We find no difficulties, and will be able to see to it that the allies must win or succumb to Teutonic domination."

The man told him to turn to the right and after speaking to the driver Daly asked if there was a garage and a good hotel near. The policeman gave him some directions, and when the car turned round and rolled away slowly Foster followed. He passed close by the policeman and taking advantage of the sociable Scottish custom nodded and remarked that it was a fine night. The man answered civilly, with a careless glance at Foster, who went on, feeling satisfied with his experience, but would not know that no inquiries about him had been telegraphed to Hawick and he had only Daly to rely on. He was very curious, if the police were really anxious to find him.

The garage was open and Foster asked a man if they hired motor bicycles. The fellow said they did but the manager and the policeman were strolling about the room. Daly's driver was refilling the lamps with kerosene, and when this was finished asked for petrol.

"Here for the road again," the man who brought the car remarked. "For Langholm," replied the driver. "I don't expect we'll go farther than that, but I've got to have things ready if the boss wants to go on."

Foster hoped the other would ask where they had come from, but he did not do so, and the next moment walked down some steps at the other end of the room. Foster was not a quick retreat might betray him, Foster stood still, examining a lamp he picked up, and Daly, who passed the floor, passed within a yard or two.

"You can fix her all right I suppose," he said to the driver.

The latter said something about a spark plug, and when Daly stooped over the engine the light of a lamp shone into his face. He was a big, handsome man, but Foster, studying him closely, noted his hard and greedy eyes. For a moment, he came near forgetting the need for caution and was stirred by a fit of rage. The fellow had it in his power to bring disaster upon upright people and drag an honored name in the mire. He could humiliate Alice Featherstone's pride and ruin the brother she loved.

Lawrence had done wrong, but had paid for it and made good in Canada, and now the rogue who had learned his secret would drag him down, or, as the price of silence, bring his relatives to poverty. Foster felt that was not the man to be merciful when there was an advantage to be got; one saw a sinister hint of cruelty in his coarsely handsome face. It would have been a throw to provoke the fellow and throw him out of the garage, but Foster knew he must deny himself this satisfaction, since it would make things worse for those he meant to shield. He did not remember having felt so full of primitive savagery as before, but he exercised his self-control.

Standing in full view but rather in the shadow, he turned his head, looking down at the lamp he began to take to pieces, and presently Daly said to the driver: "You had better get some food; I'll wait you soon." Then he came back and passed close enough to touch Foster, went up the steps and through a door. Foster put down the lamp and passed into the garage. He found dinner ready at his hotel and when he had finished went to the smoking room, which was opposite the office. He left the door open and by and by heard a man enter the hall and stop at the counter.

"Have you an American called Franklin here?" he asked and Foster smiled as he recognized Daly's voice. He had half expected the visit, and the inquiry was cleverly framed. Daly had not asked about a Canadian, because the agent of Western Canada is that of the United States, and Franklin resembled Featherstone enough to prompt the girl clerk to mention the latter if he was a guest. For all that, Daly was ignorant of the Scottish character, because the Scot seldom offers information that is not demanded.

"No," she said, "we have no American staying with us." Foster thought Daly opened the visitor's book, which lay on the counter, but as he had not yet entered his name there, the latter if he learned from the clerk that Daly might enter the smoking room, and picked up the Scotsman and leaning back in his chair held up the newspaper to hide his face. After a few moments Daly said, "I don't know anybody here; it looks as if my friends aren't in the town."

Then he went along the hall, and when the door shut Foster put down the newspaper and began to think. He imagined that Daly had expected to find Featherstone in Hawick, but it was curious that he was going to Langholm, which was on the best road to Lockerie in Annandale. It was the police Foster had tried to put off the track at the chateau by striking west across the moors, and he did not think Daly had anything to do with them. He could see no light on the matter, but when he went back to the garage it was a feeling of a relief to find the car had gone.

XIII.

Foster Returns to the Garth

After breakfast next morning Foster asked the hotel porter to take his knapsack to the station and get him a ticket to Carlisle. He must leave a clue for Daly, who might come back to Hawick when he failed to find him in Annandale, but would not be badly puzzled if he went to Carlisle, because it was an important railway centre where one would find a choice of several different routes. This should give Foster a few quiet days, after which he must think of a way of inducing Daly to resume the chase. The latter probably thought he was following Lawrence, and if he did not, no doubt concluded that Foster was working in concert with him, and to find one would help him to deal with the other.

It was a dark morning and the smoke of the woollen factories hung about the town. A few lights burned in the station, but the building was gloomy and Foster had no trouble in finding the porter among the waiting passengers. Soon after he did so, the train came in and he hurried along the platform, looking into the carriages. "A corridor, sir," he said as he opened a door.

Foster got in and stood at the window until the porter went away. People were running up and down looking for places, but he had no time to lose. Opening the door on the opposite side, he went along the corridor and stood for a moment on the step at the other end of the carriage. He could not see the porter, and when two or three passengers ran up got down from the step. Next moment the whistle blew, the engine started and the train rolled out of the station.

As none of the porters spoke to him, Foster thought he had managed the thing neatly and made it look as if he had come to see somebody off instead of having been left behind. For all that, he waited a minute or two, studying a time table, to avoid the risk of overtaking the hotel porter, and then made his way by back streets out of the town. For some miles, the road he took ran somewhat of a well-cultivated valley, past turnip and stubble fields and smooth pasture, and then changed to a rough stony track that climbed a hill.

Resources of Western Canada

The vast potential resources of Western Canada for accommodating new farmers, and for providing homes for the demobilized troops and the after-war tide of immigration are indicated by figures contained in the annual report of the latter department. The total area of surveyed land in the West is 176,200,225 acres, or 1,101,621 acres of 160 acres each. Last year new surveyed, blanketed out, and settled land 2,221,280 acres, or 13,886 farms of 160 acres each. The year before 3,122,640 acres of new land were surveyed, equivalent to 19,545 quarter section farms.

Big Irrigation Convention

Prominent Speakers Will Discuss Problems of Vital Importance

The twelfth annual convention of the Western Canada Irrigation Association, will be held at Nelson, B.C., on July 24, 25 and 26. Those who have definitely arranged to speak at the convention are Mr. Don H. Birk, chief of the irrigation investigation branch of Canadian Pacific Railway, who is to bring a number of leading authorities from the United States will be secured to address the convention. Although the meeting of the Western Canada Irrigation Association are serious business gatherings, the opportunity to combine business and pleasure is never overlooked and this will be possible to an exceptional degree at the Nelson convention this summer. No more beautiful holiday resort could have been selected for this gathering and the Nelson people are setting themselves about to make preparations for entertainment on a schedule which while it will be in keeping with the war spirit of the times will lack nothing of the hospitality for which the pioneer, the prospector, and the rancher are famous. The convention should prove particularly attractive to farmers from the prairie provinces who will be afforded an opportunity of hearing many of their problems discussed by men who have made life studies of them and who at the same time may enjoy for themselves and the members of their families a very delightful outing in the mountains and lake regions of Southern British Columbia.

Aircraft Get Three U-Boats

Longer Hours of Daylight Enable Seaplanes to Hunt Down U-boats

Accounts of the destruction of three enemy submarines by British aircraft were published recently. It explained that the longer hours of daylight enable seaplanes, airships and kite balloons to assist materially in hunting down U-boats. Summer conditions favor the submarine hunters, whose incessant searching of the seas forces German craft to seek deeper waters.

An observer in a British towing balloon sighted certain things which, to his trained eye, indicated the presence of a U-boat at a great depth. Depth charges were dropped, and the submarine was obliged to shift its position. The balloon observer then started a sailing vessel, and a submarine was observed to emerge a long distance away on the horizon and start shelling a sailing vessel. The balloon was towed rapidly to the spot, and in the meantime the U-boat was forced to submerge by shots from the towing vessel. Under the direction of the balloon observer the towing vessel got over the track of the U-boat and dropped nine depth charges. A large quantity of oil came to the surface, spreading gradually until it covered an area of a square mile.

A British dirigible sighted a U-boat attacking a merchantman. The dirigible reached the spot just after the U-boat submerged and dropped a bomb three feet astern. A quantity of oil came to the surface. The dirigible dropped a second bomb, scoring a direct hit and lifting the submarine to the surface momentarily. The U-boat disappeared in a pool of oil.

A seaplane sighted a U-boat submerging and dropped a bomb, which brought a quantity of air bubbles to the surface. The seaplane dropped a second bomb into the centre of the churned water and a great quantity of oil came to the surface. The disturbance continued for so long a time it was evident the submarine was mortally wounded.

Profit in Mutton

Lamb Feeding on Irrigated Land Is Remunerative

The lamb industry has not developed so rapidly in Canada as it has in the United States. The reason for this is that the taste of the Canadian people with regard to mutton is not so discriminating as that of their neighbors to the south. In Canada the public seems to prefer the yearling or two-year-old wether, and is loath to accept the larger cuts rather than to call for handyside legs, loins, etc. Nevertheless, the feeding of lambs in Canada, and especially in Alberta, where an abundance of irrigated land is available with comparative ease. Particularly in the irrigated areas does the lambing industry seem to be obtaining good results. Many farmers in the Lethbridge district of Southern Alberta have had developed quite a feeding industry.

The Canada Land and Irrigation Company, of Medicine Hat, have made some nice records in this direction, too. Last spring this company shipped 275 lambs to Calgary, selling them for $16.00 per hundred, which at that time was a record price. They were on feed a little more than 100 days and weighed 97 lbs. at the time of shipment.

This past winter the company put 325 range lambs on feed November 20, and on the 12th of January, after 43 days' feeding, 202 head of them were sold at 16 cents per pound, fed, watered and weighed at the Rothman Irrigated farm, and as this would mean 17 cents per pound in Calgary, it was a record by a large margin. Those who love a feeding game will find pleasure and profit in the feeding of lambs. It would not surprise competent authorities if the lamb market exceeded the 20-cent mark locally in the near future, and with very little extra effort a bunch of range lambs can be fattened in short periods.

Close the Stores Early

Why not close the stores every other day at noon and let the clerks go out and help on the farms? Why not let the towns' employees, including the town clerk, get out on the farm for the harvest rush? Why not close the lawyers' offices every afternoon? Why cannot the school teachers help on the farms during the holidays?

Despoiling the Dead

Stripping and Despoiling All Bodies of Friends and Enemies

The battle has shown us a German innovation—the creation of specially equipped units known as "Asubent Commandos," who are given the task of completely stripping and despoiling all bodies of friends and enemies picked up on the battlefield.

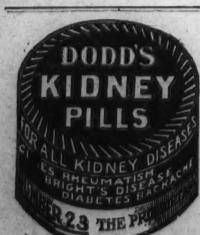

These official robbers collect all clothing and equipment from the corpses and send the booty to centres which dispatch them to the rear. The extreme shortage of leather and clothing explains the creation of these death units, without reckoning that the Germans, who are more than ready for treachery, will be able to clothe certain of their units as French or British soldiers in an attempt to deceive us.

The Largest Flour Mill in Canada

Construction of New Flour Mill at Calgary

Rapid progress is being made in the construction of the new flour mill which is being erected in Calgary, Alberta, and which, when completed, will be the largest in Canada, and one of the most up-to-date mills on the American continent.

Plans have been laid for a remarkable output of flour in the mills and storage of grain in the elevators. The mill itself will be built in two units, one for the preparation of export flour, and the other for flour to be used on the local market. The capacity of the mill will be from 6,000 to 7,000 barrels of flour daily, and the capacity of the elevator will be a million bushels.

It is estimated that from three to four hundred men will be employed in the mill and elevator when completed. The cost of constructing the plant will be well on to a million dollars.

Situated as it is right in the heart of a country where the best of hard spring wheat is grown, and having most favorable marketing facilities, Calgary is an ideal location for such a mill.

"Why have you stopped Murphy?" asked the officer.

"If ye plaze, sir," was the answer, "O'm coasting."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

The True Celtic Wit

Gift of Repartee Possessed by the Common People

A good story of an episode that befell him in Dublin a little while before the war is told to a London newspaper by Adm. Sir Cecil Burney, who was commander of a division at the battle of Jutland.

Accompanied by a friend, he was strolling along the quays when the conversation turned on the alleged gift of repartee possessed by the Irish common people. His companion ventured to throw doubt upon that gift, saying that he believed it was only a legend.

"Well," retorted Sir Cecil, "I can tell you this, that if you care to test your theory by making some jesting remarks to anyone you like around here, you'll get just as good as you give."

"We'll try it," said the other, and he walked over to where an old woman was displaying some fruit for sale on a stall. Taking up a fine melon and addressing the old lady, he said gravely: "You grow pretty good apples over here, mother; but in England we have them twice that size."

The old lady looked up, surveyed the joker coolly, and replied in a tone of pity: "Ah, what for should I be wastin' me breath to talk to wan that takes our Irish gooseberries for apples!"—Moose Jaw Times.

Big Wheat Yield

Average Yield of Crops of Western Canada Over Ten Years

The census and statistics office of the Canadian government has just completed a statement of the annual average yields per acre of field crops for the ten years from 1908 to 1917. This statement shows that the average yield per acre of fall wheat in Canada is 23 bushels, and of spring wheat, 19 bushels, as compared with the United States decennial averages, 1907 to 1916, of 15.6 bushels for winter, and 13.2 bushels for spring wheat. By far, the larger proportion of wheat grown in Canada is grown in the Prairie Provinces, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Minard's Liniment Cows Distemper

Manitoba's "Cow Bill"

The Venture Has Proved Wholly Successful

Manitoba was the first of the western provinces to place the credit of the provincial government in enabling co-operative groups of farmers to purchase and breed purposes. Manitoba started in this line two years ago and the Winnipeg Free Press reports that the venture has proved wholly successful. About 3,500 cows have been supplied to nearly 1,000 settlers, and over 3,000 applications are now on hand to be dealt with later. During the fall of 1917 the first payments became due on the cows supplied during the previous year, and the fact that practically every payment was met when due, shows that the cows were delivered to the right class of thrifty settlers, and the venture was a good investment and proved profitable. It is worth noting, too, that the creamery companies of Winnipeg also report a large increase of milk supplies from the districts where cows have been delivered by the government.

In Alberta, where a similar system of government aid was inaugurated about the same time, the venture has proved equally successful.

I at one time developed woman's trouble; my nerves were completely shattered, and I became weak. I had severe backache and pains in my side, extending down into my limbs. I was a doctor, but did not regard my ailment and was down and out when I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and it so completely cured me and restored me to health and strength that I was able to do all my own work and resume my business. I do recommend 'Pierce's Prescription' to weak and ailing women; they cannot get a better medicine."—Miss JESSIE LOCKHART, 86 Terrace Ave.

The Government Helps

Assisting Manitoba-Farmers to Purchase Cattle

Under a scheme of the Manitoba government, farmers in that province with grazing and feeding facilities, but without the means with which to buy cattle, are enabled to stock their farms with high-class animals, feed them all summer, and sell them in the winter. This scheme, known as the "Stockers and Feeders Plan," is very simple in its method of operation.

The farmers buy a number of cattle which have been approved by the agricultural representative of the department of agriculture. The government pays for the animals, and as a security, takes a lien note from the farmer. The note, which bears interest at six per cent, does not mature until the following October.

By means of this plan, nearly two thousand head of prime cattle were kept in the province last year; they were fit for food purpose, whereas had the plan not been in existence, they would have been sold for slaughter in a light and unsatisfactory condition.

The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Revolvers and Liquor

The basis of crime is liquor, in the opinion of members of the Illinois State Society of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology, which held its seventh annual convention at Chicago lately. The president of the society declared that with the abolition of the liquor traffic, seventy-five per cent of the sum total of crime will disappear. And, according to a state senator, who was formerly assistant state attorney, murderers are not necessarily innate criminals. Not one murder in a hundred is the result of deliberate intent, he says, his experience having taught him that the trouble lies largely in the indiscriminate sale of revolvers and liquor.

Nearly all children are subject to worms, and many are born with them. Spare them suffering by using Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, the best remedy of the kind that can be had.

Striking Exhibit

Diverse Resources of Canada Shown at Windsor Station

Visualizing in a striking manner a large number of the diverse natural resources of Canada, the Canadian Pacific Railway has just opened to the public an exhibit at the Windsor street station. This exhibit, which is situated in a room immediately adjoining the main entrance to the station on Osborne street, has been prepared by the collaboration of the Quebec government and the C.P.R.

One half comprises the Quebec exhibit, consisting of a sampler of the resources of the province—lumber, asbestos, and other minerals, grain, maple sugar, fish-bearing animals, such as the ermine, marten, mink, fox and beaver, and fish and game birds.

The C.P.R. exhibit has been gathered from the entire Dominion. A splendid display of strains produced in the fertile fields of Western Canada is a special feature. Supplementing this is a big collection of fruit, forestry products and minerals. A number of colored transparencies show the methods used in developing the forest resources of Canada, from the primary stage to the finished product as in wooden ships. Other transparencies illustrate some of the summer resorts along the company's lines. Complete and recent statistics of all the country's resources add conviction to the display. The exhibit is installed in handsome showcases, brilliantly lit, and it is interesting to know that all the material used in the construction room is Canadian material exclusively.

Clothes do not make the young man, but a uniform helps a whole lot, observes the Regina Leader.

25 Per Cent. Increase in Hog

The Winnipeg Free Press reports an expected increase of 25 per cent in Alberta's output of bacon this year. There was a smaller percentage of losses among the young pigs this spring than in the last three years, and it is now pretty well assured that all the population of nature's porkers all over the province will be multiplied in about the proportions hoped for when the increased production campaign was started.

The Red Cross Society, Calgary, August 20th, 1918.

Dear Mrs. Thomas: We beg to acknowledge with thanks a shipment of Red Cross supplies which has been received at the Depot from the Red Cross Society at Crossfield, and herewith enclose official receipt for same.

Our Receiving Department after looking over the articles forwarded reported to us that the work is very satisfactory, and we must congratulate you on the success which your Branch is achieving in making these supplies.

I am sure that your members will all realize from reading the long lists of casualties, which have appeared within the last few days in our newspapers, how great is the present need for supplies. Unfortunately our shipments for the past month have not been as large as usual, owing to the fact that so many of our women are so busy on the farms. We therefore make a special appeal to all our members to do what they can to make up this shortage in supplies and help us not only to keep the supplies up to the average, but to increase them in proportion to the necessities of our hospitals overseas and at home.

Yours faithfully,
MARY C. WAAGEN,
Hon. Supt. of Supplies and Joint Secy.
